Parent Greyhound Corp., Tells Board To Trim Costs or Sell the Fresh Meat Slaughtering Plants, Handlers

BY TED GOULDY. The upheaval in the wholesale fresh meat packing business gained speed last week when Greyhound Corp., authorized its board to either close or sell its Armour Food Co. plants, with the first target those operating under the "meat contract" with the United Food & Commercial Workers Union. The firm contends it is in no position to compete with other packers with its present labor costs. The Armour move comes shortly after Oklahoma City-based Wilson Foods Corp., filed under Chapter 11 of the Bankruptcy Code in an effort to escape a union contract it signed made that company non-competitive with other plants enjoying more favorable labor contracts.

It has been generally understood that the session was absolutely necessary for several reasons, including the imminent demise of the Texas Employment Commission among other things. July 1 has been mentioned as a probable date for the special session.

Movement To Organize Breeding Cattle Association Studied

One of the alternatives of the recent meeting in Austin of Texas breeding cattle producers has been the projection of a plan for all concerned to establish an organization of all purebred associations and commercial cattlemen to present their views and problems to legislative bodies and officials. Realizing that a united front of the people concerned in these matters carries more weight than individual efforts the proposal is being given serious consideration.

Fed Cattle Uneven, Hogs Mostly Higher At Central Markets

Receipts of cattle and hogs were slightly lower at the central markets on Monday, but the trade on both species was highly uneven from point to point. In the fed cattle trading halfers and higher weight steers put more of a two-way pecker-feeder trade and Holsteins were moving. Best heifers weighed of 1,200 lbs. or better. Slaughter cows and bulls were little changed at these markets. Monday's estimated cattle kill at 129,000 was (CONT. ON PAGE 38) agreements with the Maritime Union and other such unions which were certain to promote more peaceful relations and less interference in plant operations and sales. Most of the major packers of the old school have maintained a large share of the food business by engaging in production and sale of consumer items ranging from canned foods to frozen foods and finished products such as sausages, etc. However, the exodus from the actual slaughtering and production of fresh carcasses continues to be abandoned by packers and sold to high labor costs and less efficient plants. The matter of volume has also been a large factor. Smaller plants all over the country have been closing in increasing numbers in recent years. A new crop of "major" or "big packers" has been developed and the modernization of the meat and food business is going forward at a rapid rate. Some of the new breed of livestock slaughterers, which are beef exclusively, are to be located in the equipment and less labor costs. Armour's meat business and its associated radical move. ### Polled Hereford Showmen Headed For Reno, Nevada

Some 275 exhibitors from 80 states and Canada will be showing Polled Herefords at the 10th National Junior Polled Hereford Show in Reno, Nev., July 17-22. More than 400 entries are scheduled to show in this event that has come to be recognized as one of the largest youth events of its kind in the world.

Besides the show, slated for July 20-21, other planned activities include a youth leadership forum, speech contest, Polled Hereford judging contest and the annual Polled Hereford Beef Bowl. A special forum has been scheduled to discuss career opportunities in agriculture ranging from animal production and veterinary medicine to range management and ag communications.

Nationally known cattle authorities judging the show will be Bill Jacobs of California Polytechnic State University, San Luis Obispo; Billy Tuite of G. Tuite and Sons Polled Herefords, Hillsboro, Texas; and Jim Straw, of Falklands Farm, Schellburg, Pa. The finals of the National Junior Showmanship Contest will also be held in Reno, with 50th National Polled Hereford Herdsman of the year Glenn Erickson of Glenkirk Farms, Mayville, Mo., serving as judge.

Some $7,500 in premiums will be awarded for the 20 heifer classes and the cow-calf competition.

Texas Pol-Eltes On The Move!

All systems are "GO" in the Pol-Eltes these days! We are looking forward to the tour, to the Pol-Elte Auction and to the crowning of the new Miss Texas Pol-Elte and Ms. Texas Pol-Elte.

Let's try to make the auction the best ever, with our scholarship and trophy obligations for the Junior program and the upcoming Fort Worth National (January 1984), we need an especially successful fund raiser.

Groundwork for the National is already being laid by the joint efforts of the TPHA and Pol-Elte board of directors. The support and work of all members, of both TPHA and the Pol-Eltes, is needed in order to have a National we'll be proud of.

By now Pol-Eltes should have received the form to vote for the Miss Pol-Elte of their choice. Past, as well as present, involvement in the state Pol-Elte program is an important factor in the National contest and should be kept in mind in casting your ballot. Be sure to get it in before the deadline so your vote will count.

Thanks for the recipe for the new cookbook! Response was good and is much appreciated on the national level.

Pol-Eltes, don't miss a meeting or a newsletter - so much good, positive spirit and enthusiasm is evident and so many things are happening to make this year successful and fun! Don't let it all go!

Texas Polled Hereford Membership Drive

The TPHA & Pollettes board of directors met March 5th in Rio Vista at the TPHA office building. During this meeting a membership drive for TPHA & the Pollettes was organized for the coming year. Formation of a new award for this drive was decided and planned for the drive. The award will be given each year at our annual banquet in Fort Worth.

To achieve this award any member of the TPHA who is instrumental in signing up three new TPHA members will be awarded a class winner pin and inducted into the Grand Champion Club.

For those members signing up more than three, special awards will be made, with the leader in membership sign ups being named the Grand Champion of the year's membership drive and will receive a very special award for his or her work.

This is one of the most positive things we have going for the TPHA today so get out and find new members.

Polled Hereford Heifers Eligible For Heifer Futurity

The TPHA is now a qualified heifer nominator for Polled Hereford heifers for the 1st Garretson Cattle Co. heifer futurity. The futurity will be held in Fredericksburg on July 25-30. Heifers must be nominated by a certified nominator in the State of Texas before they are eligible to show. Grand Champion heifer will bring $10,000.00 for top honors. Each breed will be divided in two classes and will show for breed champion honors of $1000.00. This is a step in the right direction to stimulate heifer sales in the State and promises to be a very successful event.

Polled Herefords need to be represented, so if you are interested, contact Ray Mahan at the TPHA office 817/873-2624.

Kopper Penny, Little Polled Herefords Top Kilgore College Test

Kopper Penny Ranch, Inc., Cooper Texas, consigned the high-indexing Polled Hereford to the recently completed Kilgore College Bull Test, Overton, Texas. Sired by JBS Vie Jogger 402, the winner completed the 140-day feed test with the performance to rank him 18 percent above the 23 Polled Herefords on test. He posted an average daily gain (ADG) of 3.88 lb., yearling weight of 1,085 lb., and weight per day of age (WOA) of 2.84 lb.

The number one Polled Hereford sire group was consigned by B.F. Little, Willie Point, Texas. This trio of T & S Glines 7715 sons had an average ADG of 3.25 lb., average yearling weight of 988 lb., and average WOA of 2.84. The number two individual Polled Hereford in the rankings was consigned by Johnny Bagley, Henderson, Texas. His entry, BCF Victors Sanner, beat the average by more than 17 percent with an ADG of 3.84 lb., yearling weight of 1,080 lb., and WOA of 2.84 lb.

A bull's performance on feed test is an indication of his ability to sire growthy, efficient calves for the feedlot. In recognition of these bulls' superior performances, the winners have been awarded plaques by the American Polled Hereford Association, Kansas City, Mo.

Kopper Penny Polled Herefords To Disperse

John Pierce, owner of the Kopper Penny Ranch, announced recently the complete dispersal of his Polled Hereford cow herd. The Kopper Penny Ranch is located four miles north of Cooper, Tx., in Ocho County.

Improved Field Storage Of Hay Possible With New Product

THOMASVILLE, N.C. - The also will be on the endangered list if Rex Plastics Inc. has its way.

The firm has developed a plastic bag for field storage of hay. The trademarked product is called The Hay Bag. A number of state universities have worked with Rex Plastics in developing and testing The Hay Bag.

Using a round baler, hay is cut and allowed to wilt to a 45 to 70 percent moisture content. With a loader, the bales are lifted and a Hay Bag clipped on end tied. The bagged hay is "stored" right in the field. Thanks to a special ultra-violet inhibitor developed by Rex Plastics, the result is a high-quality silage that ferments in a three-week period.

Research has shown that use of The Hay Bag means a better grade feed with a higher amount of retained protein.

Use of The Hay Bag saves labor involved in moving hay to a silo or barn. And can save on building additional storage. Studies show that construction costs for these structures have increased over 65% since 1978.

Hay storage in silage trenches and as bales in the field means loss of nutrients and poor levels of moisture. Silos and trenches often present a safety hazard due to gases that develop during the soiling process.

Feed value research indicates baled silage is much better than hay. Hay has a 5.8% crude protein level while baled silage has 12%. Baled silage is also 5% more digestible than hay.

In lost situations, Rex Plastics found that it is important that bags be tightly sealed. All bales must be bagged the day they are cut and not allowed to sit overnight. Most producers preferred making smaller bales due to the weight of wet bales. The Hay Bag comes in 60" and 80" bags, in opaque, black and white, packed on rolls, ten bags per roll in a corrugated carton. A variety of round baling equipment was used in testing.

Field application testing of The Hay Bag was conducted by J. Kenneth Evans, University of Kentucky; Dr. Joe Buron, University of Tennessee; Dr. R.H. Brown, University of Georgia; Dr. James Greene, North Carolina State University and Dr. D.L. Cross, Clemson University.

Dogs are now being insured against accidents, sickness, and diseases.

New Low Cost, High Performance Wind-Powered Water Pumps

DENVER - Windynamics, Inc. of Denver, Colorado, announced today its new line of "wind turbine" mechanical water pumps of a vertical-axis rotor design. Available in 4', 8' and 8' diameter versions, the machines can produce up to 5,000 gallons per hour depending on depth.

The company claims that livestock and agricultural users can achieve substantial savings over conventional energy and maintenance intensive equipment by using its turbines, and that their simplicity of design and structural integrity, with far fewer moving parts make them far more reliable than fan or propeller type windmills.

Windynamics water pumps are the result of 4 years of research and development and are noted for their exceptional high torque from low RPM, operating at wind speeds as low as 8 mph. Construction features include a solid weldment all-aluminum rotor and rugged all-weather transmisses. Gyroscopic effect of the vertical axis allows units to be post-mounted, eliminating the need for guide wires or expensive scaffold type structures. Propellerless rotor design assures safe, voiceless operation, plus their light weights make the Windynamics units ideal for any difficult access installations.

Sperry New Holland Offers Low Cost Financing

1988 farm equipment purchasers can take advantage of some of the lowest financing charges ever offered on installment purchases: some as low as 3% per annum. Lowest rate financing is for shorter periods with graduated rates for intermediate periods.

Sperry New Holland is now offering 3% financing for one-year contracts for hay and forage harvesting equipment, manure spreaders, grider-mixers, tub grinders, and skid-steer loaders.

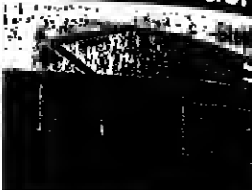

The new, low rate schedule is 3% for 12 months with monthly payments, 6% for 2-year contracts with monthly payments, quarterly or semi-annual payments and 9% for 3-year installment purchase contracts with monthly, quarterly, or semi-annual payments.

Except for loaders, waiver of finance charge contracts are also available. At the end of the waiver period, the contract will be subject to higher financing rates.

Full details on the new financing rates are available from Sperry New Holland retailers.

SAN ANGELO, Texas, June 7 — Now through the first or second week of July is the time to spray herbicides

AVOID CHANGING WELL LEATHERS FOR MANY YEARS

Perma-cups are molded urethane, more wear resistant than nylon. Perma-cups will outlast leathers 10 to 1. Their tapered design allows only 1/8" wear, instead of 5/8" of a leather. Much less friction for easier pumping extends cylinder life greatly. Perma-cups must be used in a good or new cylinder, as they do not swell. Install Urethane Perma-cups, Urethane Check-balls, and Urethane Pump Rod-guides, and don't pull them well for many years. Thousands are in wells that have not been reathered in 9 years! All are available in standard cylinder and pipe sizes. Write or call for our catalog. We ship same day order is received. This is our 33rd year serving ranchers.

to control mesquite on West and North Texas ranches that harbor most of the state's 56 million acres of the thorny brush. It could be a good year for it, depending on local conditions.

In many areas, range specialists say, conditions are such they expect this to be the best year since 1980 for getting good control with herbicide treatments. But recent hail, insect activity and dry weather followed by rain to earlier expectations for a good spraying year across the entire mesquite belt.

"A rancher's best bet is to leave the factors that affect good herbicide action on mesquite and then check the condition of the brush on his own ranch," says Dr. Jim Boh Grumhies, Dallas, a range scientist who is a herbicide specialist for Dow Chemical U.S.A. "Best results can be expected when mesquite has good dark green foliage. Soil temperatures are above 75 degrees at a 15-inch depth, and there's good ground moisture," he says. "The mesquite needs to be healthy and free of stress to properly translocate herbicides from the foliage to the root zones."

Dr. Darrell Ueckert of the Texas A&M Research Station at San Angelo says West Texas mesquite has fairly heavy foliage which is needed for herbicide to do its best work. "It's a fairly decent year for mesquite control," he says, surprisingly so, considering the little rain that fell in April and most of May from Ballinger west.

But he cautions ranchers to keep close watch. "If it starts raining after a dry period, that could change the picture," he says. In some areas, there's possibility of a replay of problems that resulted in 1981 and 1982 when rain during the spray season caused new sprouts of mesquite foliage growth that moved herbicide outwards instead of translocating it through the plant as desired. "You don't want to spray when new moisture starts a flush of new growth. When that happens it is best to allow 10 days to two weeks to let the new foliage mature. Then the plant's physiological flow will be from foliage to the roots again."

Dr. Pete Jacoby at Texas A&M's Vernon Research Station says cold temperatures delayed mesquite's leafing in North Texas and the spray season is a little later than normal. But moisture is good and leaf development which he calls "better than average" probably is not more than a week or two behind schedule. Conditions are generally favorable for good control and the time to spray is "real close," he says. "The best time to spray is 40 to 80 days past bud break and we are approaching that."

Texas A&M brush specialists say picloram mixed with 2, 4, 5-T controls mesquite better than other herbicides approved for range use in Texas. Grazon herbicide, introduced into last spring, are the only picloram-containing herbicides now sold for range use in Texas, New Mexico and Oklahoma. Brush specialists especially like a mixture of Grazon PC plus 2, 4, 5-T when there is prickly pear among the mesquite. No other herbicide works as well to control prickly pear as picloram, they say.

Other herbicides commonly used to control mesquite include a mixture of 2, 4, 5-T and dicamba used straight 2, 4, 5-T.

"What is needed to open the spray season in North Texas is for soil temperatures to warm up and mesquite leaves to develop a dark green color," Dr. Jacoby says. "Then it will be ready."

Dr. Ueckert agrees it is best not to spray mesquite if it has a lot of new, light green growth. Thick foliage that has turned a deep, dark green is required for best control.

As for soil temperature, Dr. Grumhies says it is "critical" to reach 75 degrees at a depth of 12 to 16 inches before spraying. Optimum is considered about 88 degrees at that depth, but results should be good if other factors are any time soil temperature is 75 degrees or above.

Dr. Jacoby believes there may be more treatment of mesquite in North Central Texas this year than there has been in recent years because conditions are good and introduction of the Grazon herbicides has reduced the price ranchers pay for picloram. "I have heard of large blocks that are going to be sprayed," he says.

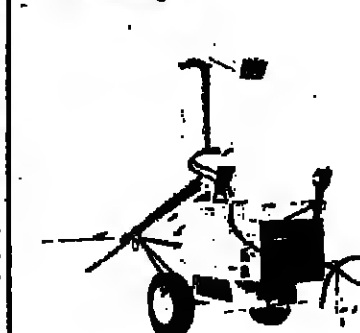

Mesquite has proven a persistent, hard-to-control pest with little redeeming value from the rancher's point of view.

Researchers are continually looking for large scale, practical ways that would make mesquite a cash crop but neither Dr. Jacoby nor Dr. Ueckert expects that to happen soon. Uses have been found but, Dr. Jacoby says, "The cost of producing salable products out of mesquite is too high for it to be economically feasible."

It makes good firewood but often costs too much to cut and get to market. Using mesquite in cattle feed has not yet proved practical. Mesquite pulp makes pretty good paper of certain types but won't compete economically in the forestry industry, Dr. Jacoby says he even saw some nice furniture made from mesquite wood. And, yes, the price was high — probably too high for successful marketing.

New Financial Program From Massey-Ferguson Attractive

Farmers have traditionally owned most of their machinery. In recent years, however, several economic developments have encouraged farmers to more seriously consider non-ownership alternatives.

Today's farmer is operating in an environment of increasing capital requirements for machinery purchases, a high rate of machine obsolescence, heavier demands for capital in all areas of farming, and a related strain on traditional sources of working capital. Consequently, there is a growing realization by farmers that machine use, not ownership, is most essential to profit making.

Nearly all successful farmers today recognize flexible financing options as a desirable source of capital for financing all kinds of capital equipment needs. They recognize that the use of equipment produces profits, whether or not that equipment is owned. So to keep lines of credit and working capital available for other purposes, they are turning in more frequently to options other than purchase.

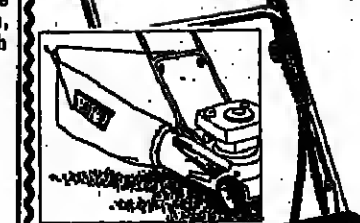

The use of flexible financing tailored to individual users, time periods, cash flow requirements, and equipment applications, is Financial Merchandising, a Massey-Ferguson concept.

Simply stated, Financial Merchandising is a creative sales approach to a customer's problems of financing the acquisition of machinery he needs. Massey-Ferguson's Financial Merchandising programs include:

- Installment Purchase
- Equity Financing
- Leasing
- Rental
- Rental Purchase
- Buy-Down

These programs offer the customer a great deal of flexibility — of time of advance payments, of payment schedules, of financing rates, or skip payments, and of ways to combine and vary them to suit the needs of every customer. For more information, see your local Massey-Ferguson dealer.

Insecticide Tags Out Of The Ear Proves Effective

The following story on a new fly control program was written by a Kansas State U. student, James T. Ryan.

Using insecticide impregnated ear tags but not placing them in the ears of cattle is a new control method for face and horn flies.

This method of fly control requires that the animal must walk under and rub the tags which are attached to the bottom of a dust bag (without insecticide) or a tire chain strung between two poles, says A.B. Broce, livestock entomologist at Kansas State University.

Another method which is similar to this is the use of insecticide ear tags on the curtains of mineral feeders, says Eugene Francis, area extension livestock specialist. This is being done on the Rhine brothers farm in Washington County, Kansas, and they have had "good control of flies."

Francis says, "Control has been 95 to 100 percent effective on horn flies and 90 percent effective on face flies."

This is better control for face flies and equivalent control for horn flies as compared to placing two ear tags on the ears of cattle, according to Kansas State University research.

Francis recommends bagging one ear tag per cow calf pair on the curtain in May and then placing an additional tag per cow calf pair in July. This will control flies and horn flies for the entire season, says Francis.

"The cattle go to the mineral feeder once every second or third day which is enough times to control the flies," Francis explained.

When the tags are put on a dust bag or chain, the tags have to be placed where the cattle are forced to go through.

"The tags can be placed over an entrance to a mineral box or to the watering source," says Broce.

Since the face and horn fly population varies from year to year, it is hard to predict how many tags are needed.

Broce says "Cattle should be monitored to see if the fly control is adequate. If there are too many flies the operator should place more tags on the bag or chain."

One advantage of placing the tags on a chain, dustbag or on a curtain of a mineral feeder is that the flies can be controlled without tagging the cattle.

Broce, who has been doing research on this fly control system four years, says that using ear tags in this fashion, compared to placing them in the ears, may control the flies more economically and slow down the development of resistance of flies to the insecticide.

With the use of too many ear tags the horns and face flies can build up resistance faster since the flies that survive are the most tolerant and are the ones that reproduce, said Broce, who notes that insecticide ear tags are not recommended for use in the feedlot.

Kansas State University studies show that Ectrio and Atroba ear tags, used as labeled give 95 to 100 percent control of horn flies and 60 to 70 percent control of face flies.

"This can mean $20 more beef per calf at a cost of two to three dollars," says Don Mock, extension integrated pest management coordinator.

These ear tags won't control stable flies, which are a problem in confinement operations, so they are not recommended for use in a feedlot, says Broce.

If you are looking for the best tag on the market which tag would you buy? You have a choice between green, red, yellow or clear ones; 3-sided, 6-sided, 7-sided or elongated, with a cost range of between $.75 and $1.25 depending on the brand and number bought.

According to research on tags that were available last year there were few differences between the brands on the market.

Chemicals used in all of the ear tags are pyrethroids; fenvalerate and permethrin.

A descriptive list of insecticide ear tags was provided by a pesticide industry.

A long strip tag has advantages on a dust bag or chain because it is longer and rubs the cattle more frequently.

Use of insecticide ear tags on bulls isn't recommended. The thick neck of bulls will not allow the head to swing back and rub on the body sufficiently enough to rub the insecticide on, says Broce.

Whether to use ear tags on a mineral feeder curtain, on a dust bag or tire chain, or to place the tags in the ears of the cattle is the decision for individual producers. For more information contact, Fred Mann, Box 444, Waterville, KS 66548. Phone 913-785-2117 (night).

The fragrance of flowers is due to the special essences of oil which the plants produce.

It's time for gardeners to stop gardening and start "farming," says a horticulturist with the Texas Agricultural Extension Service, Texas A&M University System. Gardeners should look at their backyard small farms. They encounter the same problems as do farmers, but make many of the same decisions, including varieties, planting dates and matters.

New System Increases Feed Processing Efficiencies

The CPM Ripener being introduced by California Pellet Mill Co. makes it possible to extend the conditioning time of feeds prior to the pelleting process.

By increasing conditioning time, states the manufacturer, feed mill operators can expect improved gelatinization of starches, the softening of fibers, improved liquid and steam absorption, and the activation of natural binders.

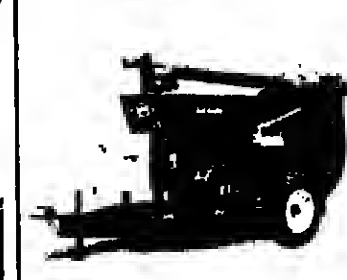

Installation requires placing the unit between the feed bin, equipped with its own feeder/mixer, and the feeder/mixer on the pellet mill (see diagram).

Developed by CPM in Europe and used extensively there, The CPM Ripener is said to offer a number of additional advantages, depending upon the ingredients: improved pellet quality, more efficient utilization of steam, higher levels of molasses and other liquids, reduced fines, increased die and roll life, and improved salmonella control.

Options include hydraulically-driven input augers, either seven or twelve inch discharge elevators for all grains. For an extended life, the mills are made with heavy-gauge steel and have replaceable wear plates at the end of the rolls to eliminate frame wear. Cone hardened rolls last up to four times longer than regular rolls. Standard seven and nine inch rolls efficiently crack and move high capacity loads. Customized nine inch rolls are available. Other options are the two-high model with upper set of rolls for coarse cracking and lower set of rolls for fine grinding.

Henke has manufactured feed-grain processing and handling equipment for over 40 years. More information on portable roller mills and other Henke products is available from Henke Machine, Inc., P.O. Box 1006, Columbus, Nebraska 68601.

Portable Roller Mill From Henke

Columbus, NE - Portable roller mills manufactured by Henke Machine, Inc. can pack more grain into less space. During harvest, they can be used when tilling pit silos.

In storage, rolled grain packs tighter to increase storage capacity by about 25 percent. "In addition, tests have shown rolled grain outperform whole grain in stretching livestock feed conversion," Wayne Devy, president of Henke, said.

Mill capacities range up to 1800 bushels per hour. They can process shelled corn entering or leaving storage under both high and low moisture conditions. The fineness of grind can be adjusted easily while the mills operate. Rolls crack grain like flint, barley and wheat with minimal flouring.

Ludwig Brand Is Brangus Breeder Of The Year

Garda, chairman of the Brangus Committee, Burton, Texas, made the presentation to the enthusiastic Brangus supporters at the sale sight, River Hill Country Club, Kerrville, Texas.

Dedication, determination and enthusiasm are just three of the many words that describe the dedication of the 1983 Brangus Breeder of the Year, Ludwig Brand.

The Houston, Texas resident is certainly not a newcomer to the Brangus breed as he became a member of the International Brangus Breeders Association (IBBA) on May 1, 1967. This marked the beginning of Brand's countless hours of dedication and hard work promoting and progressing the Brangus breed.

Brand has been a consistent motivator and inspirator for the breed and he is especially influential while serving as president of the IBBA. Brand has chaired several IBBA committees and is presently completing his final year on the IBBA Board of Directors. He also officiated as president of the Texas Brangus Breeders Association (TBBA) and was a member and chairman of numerous TBBA committees. As chairman of the TBBA Promotion Fund Committee, Brand organized three fund raising auctions which allowed for a considerable boost to the TBBA promotion budget.

Brand's perpetual determination was the driving force in the expansion of the IBBA headquarters as he was chairman of the Building fund in 1979. During this time Brand established a goal of raising $100,000 to pay off the mortgage of the IBBA headquarters in San Antonio, Texas. This mark was greatly surpassed as over $800,000 was raised for the project. The building is now owned free and clear by the IBBA with contributions made by the IBBA membership and through Brand's leadership efforts a 2,271 square foot expansion of the building was made possible.

As an avid supporter of the International Brangus Breeders, Brand has sponsored an award for the Grand Champion Junior Futurity heifer along with a $500 award since the show's beginning, eight years ago.

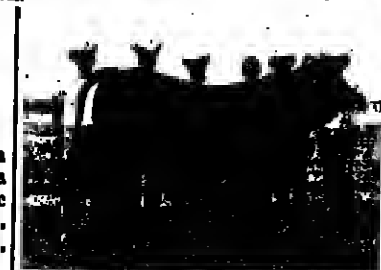

The Brangus ambassador was born in Hamburg, Germany in 1939. Later, Brand and his parents lived in Poland where his father was in the hide business. During the eruption of World War II, Brand's father was in the United States on business. Brand and his mother weathered the war in Poland and in 1948 Brand was able to join his father in the States.

He enrolled in the University of Houston at the age of 18 with no knowledge of the English language. While taking a full course load during the day, he studied English for foreign students at night. In 1954 he received a B.S. degree in animal husbandry and was just 10 hours shy of a masters degree in 1956 when he joined the U.S. Coast Guard. After two years of active duty Brand returned to become an instrumental part of the family hide business, Southwestern Trading Company.

Brand's initial start in the cattle business was with the Pollard Hereford breed. He later crossed them with Brangus bulls and the results far exceeded his expectations. Today, Brand's ranch is located near Round Top, Texas and consists of 413 acres and over 260 registered Brangus females.

The successful Brangus breeder and his wife, Judy, have two children, Kelly, 18 and Ryan, 17. Both will attend college in the fall with Kelly attending Vassar College, Poughkeepsie, New York, and Ryan attending Williams College, Williamstown, Massachusetts. Judy plays an active role in the ranching operation as she handles all registrations and records and is an IBBA certified inspector. Together, the family creates and designs their own ranch advertisements and sale catalogs and handles all their own photography.

While no one wanted to be pushed into detail about their hopes, it was clear there is a strong sentiment of opinion that the matter will be settled by the courts at this level, which would supersede the court injunction obtained by the Texas Attorney General Mark White in a very close friend of Gov. Dolph Briscoe who has been leading the opposition to the program and has sought to fund cut off and who claims the program is worthless and a waste of money. White was launched in politics by Briscoe, who appointed as secretary of state.

The legal case was transferred to Austin Judge James Norlin in a federal court in San Antonio presided over by Judge H.F. Garcia. Garcia has the power to extend the suspension of the quarantine, or he might decide to try the case on its merits, or he might decide to try the case on its merits, or he might decide to try the case on its merits.

Currently the highest level of Texas' cattle industry is the matter of other states placing embargo on Texas cattle. Some of them have already done this in so far as to have registered stock is concerned.

A "little ear" on feeder calves has become an important marketing factor in recent years.

Some feeders are demanding that their order buyers select calves with some Brahman in their genetic make-up. We think one of the best tools available to put a "little ear" on your feeder calves is to turn out a Beefmaster bull.

Contact the N.B.A. for a list of breeders who have breeding age Beefmaster bulls for sale.

Stuph & Thangs

people, some unemployed and divin' on th' docks and in Govmint housin' turned their backs on the liberal Labor Party and others and oled they felt Maggia was on th' right track, oled th' hurt a lot. They were convinced that th' Gov. and politicians had demonstrated they did not care how to run business and while th' goodies of th' Wallers Steia has been oled it was a matter of tithe Britain back on its feet and earning th' respect of other countries and rebuilding their once dominant industrial base and export businesses. There is a lasease here. When out of work, broke and deprived citizens see that they have a hard road to hoe and accept th' task in order to establish a healthy, vigorous economy and oled, th' lasease should be catchin' on in th' rest of th' civilized world.

Here in these United States was followed th' British Welfare State pattern for more than forty years, and still have a lot of people who think th' Gov. oled oves 'em a living and should deliver whatever their little hearts desire to their door step with no owest on their part. We still have a haegover in our political ranks who think there's alet any bottom to th' Govmint Pork Barrel, but they should be reminded that while th' lasease started th' lasease, they found out there was too, a bottom to the barrel.

"Th' power to tax, is truly th' power to destroy not only individuals, but national economies and th' desire to work out th' tough problems. There is surely a lesson here. Th' question is did we learn any thing from it?"

Ever thine,
Tha Editor.

P.S.—Uncle Dunk reports th' results of that Wisconsin Democratic presidential straw poll seems to indicate that in so far as Gratoos and Mondale are concerned th' choice seemed to be neither of th' above. Dunk says th' Govmint, especially th' USDA, must have some purty rod faces around and about. This week USDA discovered it was short somethin' like 700,000 bales of cotton with which to pay cotton farmers for not plantin' cotton. They'll either have to go buy this $200 million, or give farmers some other kind of payoff. Townk oled disappear o'pursuesl—Thasall, Brothel
